SPRING MEETING AT BRIGHTWOOD .- The SPRING MERTING AT BRIGHTWOOD.—The following horses have been entered for the spring meeting at Brightwood: Class 234, May 3—Constance, Washington, jr., Ned Buckley, Jersey Boy, and General Mearthur. Class 236, May 10—Jersey Boy, White Stocking, Gilt Edge, Tom Fields, and Trump. The proprietors effer two more purses for the following week, one for three-minute horses, and one for horses that have never trotted for a take or purse. They also intend to offer a free-for-all-purse, for which "H. C. Hill" will trot.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY .- The Sun-SUNDAY SOMOOL ANNIVERSANY.—The Sun-day School Union of South Washington, com-pused of the schools connected with the Fifth Haptist church, the Westminster Prochyterian church, Gorsuch chapel, Ryland chapet, and the Sixth-street Presbyterian church, held its anni-versary meeting at the first named church yes-teriagy afternoon. About midnight Saturday the neighborhood of Thirteenth street, between G and H, was aroused the cry of murder, proceeding treus reuses ves, to occupied by a lady named May. It seems at the lady in question remained out doors there later than usual that night, and while I indulged rather freely in liquids stronger as water. She was accumpanied to her home a gentleman friend. After they had retined in the house for a while the effects of her at debanch wore away, and she conceived the sat that she wanted more liquor, and tried to a out of the house for the purpose of getting it, his her gentleman friend objected to, when she issed the cry of unrider, which created the distribution of the purpose of the propose of patting it.

New BUILDING ASSOCIATION.—The Mutual Building Association, recently organized in South Washington, will hold its first meeting for the reception of duce and sale of money on Thursday vening, at St. Dominic's hall, corner of F and light hereafters.

SPORTS ON THE RIVER.—The river looks very lively around the boat-houses every evening. The members of the boat clubs are going late the sport of rowing with new life this year, and many a day of fine sport may be anticipated. Numerous beating parties are putting off from the wharves every evening. The crew of the Analostan Club have commenced to practice for the coming race with the Undine crew, of Baltimore. The crew is light in weight, but there are few such stardy correspond to the river. It is compored as follows: Stroke, J. R. White-rowing weight, 135 pounds; No. 2, J. M. Elliott-rowing weight, 135 pounds; No. 2, J. R. Marshall-rowing weight, 125 pounds; No. 2, J. R.

CURB-STONE MERTINGS.—The street-corner meetings Sunday afternoons are increasing in number. Yesterlay there was a temperance meeting conducted by several gentlemen at the corner of Seventh and Pennsylvania arenus. A corner of Sevenih and Pennsyrania arenus. A religious meeting was held at the other end of the triangular reservation, corner of Eighth street and the Avenns. An old white-headed darkey has held a meeting all by himself for several menths on the curb at Seventh and the Avenus. It makes little difference to him whether he has any audience or not; he speaks just as loud and his gestures are just as vigorous. Persons stop nomelimes and for a discover what just as loss and his gestures are just as vigorous. Ferrous stop sometimes and try to discover what surt of doctrine he preaches, but he does not con-fine himself to the narrow limits of any one par-ticular creed, so his hearers are generally pussied. He raises his voice to such a pitch at times that the temperance meeting on the same corner has to be stopped until he shouts himself hoarse, then it begins again.

THE WORLD WITHOUT GOD.

Dr. Hankin at the Congregational Church.
At the Congregational Church yesterday morning, Dr. Rankin preached from Ephesians siz: "Harving no hope, and without God in the revisi," In the introduction the speaker said that there could be nothing more pittini than the continuous of the Pagan nations of antiquity just notice the coming of Christ; a condition of blank dereal which their wisest men, their great magnetic pressure and the pressure which their wisest men, their great magnetic pressure when the construction of the condition of the condit ditions of the Pagas nations of antiquity just before the coming of Christ; a condition of blank despair which their wisest men, their great magnates in philosophy were feels: living for things temporal; deifying and worshiping nature, which was helpless to bring them back to God; as a physician given up a patient, whose cate is hopeless, to indulge his cravings whatever they may be; to lived and died these prond people, who have sent down to us their wonderful masterpieces in poetry, philosophy and art. Up out of resch deaths of darkness and desciation, out of this nature worship, the gospel had brought the Caristians at Ephesus.

This question includes in it the fact that to be hopeless is to be Godless. All men live for hope, more for what shall be or what they hope may be in the fature, than for what really is. This is the mainspring of all human effort, the impiration of all labors and achievements in the world, and that is why old ago is often so devoiate, because hope is gone for it; hence it is said in Scelesiantics, "desire shall fail."

hope is gone for it; hence it is said in Eccessi-atties, "desire shall fail."

We are all constituted prisoners of hope, and this is the condition of earth. Though we may be surrounded with all the blessings of home cul-ture, of art, of everything beautiful and elevating, yet they are of earth—earthy. And when at night a man isolates himself from the all, when he withdraws into that privacy which so citem he of the privacy of the soul sought to gether up her skritz for some pessible journey, when the echoes have died out from the haunts of business, when the halls of pleasure are husbed or deserted, when the pleasures of domestic life have failed to reach the depths of his nature, and when he turns away from the great minds of the past and close thoughts.

This is seen in common expressions of daily life in our literature. The literature of the world must depict the life of the world, and that tife is trelligious. There must of course be allusions to the Supreme Being; literature must have its Sundays, and religious services, and its Providence, and its Fate and Nemetis. There is a dence, and its Fate and Nemetts. There is a Christian theology in all the plays of Shakspears, in all the poems, just so far as there was a Christianity that marked and rounded out the life which the poem deplets. But authors are altaing mostly, not after moral or religious truth, but simply artistic truth. Why might it not betworth white for modern literature to change the popular ites, the world's idea of Christianity, as something betonging only to weak-minded people, and let it depict for once some such pastor as George Herbert, or some such preacher as Frederick Robertson?

To the scientific the world is very often a world without God. It cannot be denied that the ten-

To the adessifie the world is very often a world without God. It exame be denied that the ten-dency of adessifie thought with regard to God's works is professedly contrary to the instincts of the human mind with reference to works the works of man; that the tendescy of modern appe-nation is in the direction of Godlesences in crus-tion, the effort being, if possible, to find me need of a Greator.

choor leading in very full voice. Ar. Hrowin prayed with more than usual unction and impressiveness. That portion of his petition for the President of the United States, that God may give him wisdom and grace and strength, to enable him to discharge his duties faithfully and with an ere singly to the good of all the people; and that, despite the cloud of war which now threatened to involve the nations of the world in bloody contest, there may be an overraling Providence which shall stay the tunnels and prevent the shedding of human blood, called forthan and this and hearty amen from many of the worshipers. After the prayer the choir sang, with very fine expression and artistic taste, the anthem, "Behold What Manuer of Love."

Mr. Hrown took for his text Hebrews, xiii: "Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us by anide every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us." The text, he remarked, was an extruct anhoristion to impire good men to endure much for the cause of Christ. The way of salvation is not of our own choosing. God has instituted his own plan in the atonement made by Jesus Christ. He has set that plan before us.

The doctrines of the text were fully and lucidly discussed.

the May Eventions.

A large congregation was present at this magniferent temple at the late Mass yesterday morning. Rev. Father Power, who has just returned from his missionary labors in New York, was the celebrant. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Father Reville, the eloquent lominican. than there has been for the past several Sabbatis.

The streets presented rather a desolate appearance yesterday affignose. The threatening storm had the effect to keep polestrians within doors.

Twenty-five tramps found shelter and a place to lay their heads on a board in the station houses Sainriday night. About thirty were driven in by the drenching rain last night.

The Singing at St. John's Church—Some Remarks Upon Church Music.

A lady correspondent farnishes the following as the result of her observations in the churches yesterdary. Every stranger spending the first day of the week at the capital is struck with the quiet of the day of rest in this beautiful city, the state-tip of the state of the day of rest in this beautiful city, the state of the day of rest in this beautiful city, the state of the day of rest in this beautiful city, the state of the day of rest in this beautiful city, the state of the day of th

If no comment is made upon error, or praise given when due, our world would soon degenerate into a side show. Finitery is never well received by wise musicians. Yet the truth should be sensetimen spoken, in order that some rule of excellence may be established.

The sermon listened to at St. John's yesterday morning was one of Dr. Lewis' most happy efforts. It was a clear and foreithe explanation of the doctrine of the recurrection, a belief which so many do not firmly trust in, although it is no more incredible than the mystery of iffe.

At Epiphany church the seats were, as unual, crowded to excest. The rector, Dr. Paret, a man of rare taisent and executive ability, commands a growing share of popular favor, which will increase the better he becomes known. Men who do not change with every caprice of those to whom they minister are apt to mold their components of the sense of the o
